in military order arranged along the street through which he entered in the town. A review being held I was at the head of my troops and while passing by the general I was called to appear before him which I did. I was surprised to see by his side Schmit, who accosted me with these words "Ah, Mr. Slaveikoff, c'est vous qui est le président de cette société." In half an hour it was known throughout all the town that Schmit had come and that he was to make a revision of the finances, or the common people said da seme kayama. Crowds of people began to assemble before Police. For four days and nights it was besieged by the people and no one was admitted to enter. The populace got extremely and dangerously exasperated. It was useless
