

interval between them – lack of education and any realization opportunities.

During the recent decades a part of the young have begun painfully overcoming these stereotypes at the cost of great efforts. The changes occurring are slowly realized in the years, being limited by extent and having relatively more insignificant effect, in comparison with the requirements of our time.