

Life and I are at odds
But don't get me wrong,
I don't hate life.

The fact that this concept is commensurate with real life is emphasized by the immediate sensuous vitality of the poem. This is one of Vaptsarov's poems which most vividly express the specific immediate sensuous feeling of life in its essence of immediate human existence.

Yet I will still feel
The pleasant tingle
Of contemplating
The blue sky
Above.

I will still feel
The pleasant tingle
Of still living,
Of still being.